

EFI CELEBRATES HISPANIC HERITAGE MONTH

EFI recognizes and celebrates the invaluable contributions of more than 112,451* immigrants who play a key role in sustaining America's rich agricultural heritage. In line with this, EFI has been able to make meaningful strides in the following areas:

Offering bilingual training and certification programs to farmworkers to accommodate Spanish-speaking workers.

Recognizing the importance of language accessibility, EFI ensures that training materials, communication channels, and certification processes are available in Spanish.

Embracing Hispanic representation among growers, Leadership Teams, staff, and Board Members

Advocating for workers' rights in the Americas, including fair wages and safe environments.

Offering training and certification programs to farmworkers, which are often bilingual to accommodate Spanish-speaking workers.

Promoting fair and safe working conditions for agricultural workers. This includes Hispanic agricultural growers who often work in various roles on farms.
